

Insurances / Rating

Insurances:

The hiking day is insured against third party liability claims. There is an accident insurance for participants. The insurance coverage applies to accidents that occur during the hiking day on the marked routes, provided that the participant is in possession of a valid start card with name and complete address. The insurance benefits and the registration form are available at the organizer.

IVV-rating/control point:

The participant receives per event day and folk sport an IVV evaluation stamp of the participation evaluation as well as the actually hiked kilometers in the context of the IVV kilometer evaluation. If a route is completed several times, the purchase of a start card is required in each case. The purchased start card has to be carried along on the route and has to be presented personally at the checkpoints for identification. The IVV-ranking stamp will only be issued after completion of the course if the start card and the ranking booklet are presented in person and correspond with each other by name, if all control notes are present. The IVV classification stamp will only be issued in the association's own classification booklets.
